How to Improve Your Listing

- 1 Beautiful photos of your home are a must. Highlight key rooms and features, façade, and garden. Views from your home are also quite appealing.
- 2 Fill in your Family Profile and add a profile photo, if you like. Keep your listing updated with interesting information on your family, neighbourhood, city, and region, your interests, and travel plans.
- 3 Show that you are active and respected in the network by keeping your response rate high and making sure all your exchange partners sign your Guest Book.

Your Dashboard is your control panel and overview of your activities within HomeLink.

Here you can access your profile, messages, listings, contracts, preferences and dates & destinations

You can access your Dashboard when you are logged in as a member by clicking the little arrow to the right of your name.

1 Your Dashboard allows you to:

Access your messages (see 3.1.)

2 Click the grey arrow to open up a message so that you can read or reply. New messages are highlighted with a blue background.

3 View your past exchanges and see new entries in your guestbook. (See 5.2.)

4 Access documents that are awaiting your attention. (See 4.1.)

5 View forthcoming exchanges and view contracts that have been approved by your exchange partners.

6 View past exchanges and see exchange evaluations that are awaiting your attention (see 5.1.)

7 Response Rate. This figure shows what proportion of initial exchange offers you have replied to. The response rate is calculated from the first email received from each party. A high response rate attracts more offers, so besides being polite, it can encourage members to contact you.

8 Set your time zone. This is used in your messages. For UK, select "London".

9 Enter your dates and destinations to define your preferences for your next exchange

10 Go to your profile to change your email address or password.

11 90 days before your membership expires a message will appear in red inviting you to renew your membership. If you renew before your expiry date, a discount off the membership fee is available.

Hi The date is showing correctly and the message is... ←

You can communicate with other HomeLink members using our secure internal messaging system.

We deliberately wanted a very simple messaging system for easy use and access for everyone.

1 How do I access my email?

To access your mailbox, you must login as a member. You can access it directly by clicking on the envelope icon or the small arrow to the right of your name.

Each time you click "Contact Member" or "Contact this member again," you go directly to your inbox.

2 How is our mail organized?

Our email is organized into conversations. A conversation consists of one or more messages with the same person (see 3.2), no matter if it is a message received or sent message.

You have a page with all your Conversations and a page with all your Archived Conversations. 3

When the conversation is over (eg: a negative response or exchange completed), we advise you to keep the conversation for your future reference.

4 How are conversations organized?

Conversations are organized by chronological order of the last message in the conversation. So, you see the most recent conversations first. Conversations that appear with a blue background are those with messages you have yet to read.

5 See all messages in a conversation?

By clicking on the gray arrow to the right of the conversation, you open it and see all messages sent to this member. (See 3.2.)

6 Archive a conversation

When the conversation has ended, we advise you to archive it so as to keep in your messaging area for future reference.

7 Unarchive a conversation

When a conversation has been archived and you want to return it to the conversations, simply click on "Unarchive".

8 My archived conversations

In your email, you can access your archived conversations by clicking on "Archive Conversations".

9 My ongoing conversations

You can cancel your ongoing conversations by clicking "Return to your conversations".

4 Attach File to Message

You can attach a file to your message. It can be a photo, description or any other file on your computer. Click "Attach a file". A window opens and allows you to browse for the image that is in your computer.

5 Then press "Send"

6 Respond to all offers

As politeness and respect are an integral part of the Spirit of HomeLink, it is customary within our organization to respond to all trade offers.

To send an automated no thank you reply, after opening a conversation for the first time, you can click on the option "Send message" No thank you. "

The response rate is calculated on the exchange request received from each party. A high response rate attracts more trade offers. So besides being polite, it's in your best interest to answer each proposal you receive.

You can see, for each message, the date and time it was sent in the time zone defined in the member's profile.

8 Attachment

Home Exchanging is much more than saving money on accommodation. It is a shared way of life, circle of friends, personal comfort and property. This is why the quality of a home exchange network can not be judged solely on the number of homes available. The commitment of members, their frame of mind and practicing proper respect and etiquette make all the difference.

To ensure the quality of our network, HomeLink encourages all members to complete an evaluation after each exchange. Based on the 10 Principles of the exchange (see 5.3), the evaluation form will allow us to maintain the quality of HomeLink standards and promote the true spirit of home exchange: respect, mutual trust, honesty and sharing.

1 How to access the evaluation form?

To access the evaluation forms, you must login as a member and access you're the corresponding EAF (see 4.2).

2 Click on the link "Evaluate this exchange," to access the form.

Once a trade has been evaluated, the link becomes

Evaluation submitted

3 What is this questionnaire?

The evaluation questionnaire consists of 10 questions based on the 10 principles of trade. You will need to grade from 1 to 5 by clicking on the stars - one star being the lowest score, five stars most high.

4 You also have the option to leave a general comment about the exchange.

5 Share your comments with your exchange partner

You can share your comments with your Exchange Partner if you select this option, or post a comment only for your HomeLink Representatives and your Exchange Partner.

6 Share your comments as testimony

By clicking on this option, you authorize HomeLink to publish some or all of your comment in the site's "Testimonials" and/or to promote the spirit of the home exchange.

7 And then ... Submit.

By clicking "Submit", you submit your review to HomeLink. Your data is stored in our database. If the evaluation is negative, the representative will contact the member in question to see how to improve the situation. If the problem persists, the member is excluded from HomeLink International.

5.3 – The 10 Principles for a Successful Home Exchange

10 PRINCIPLES FOR A SUCCESSFUL EXCHANGE

People around the world do things differently, due to varying cultural norms, or simply out of individual habit. We have established the following guidelines to make sure that our home swap network offers the basic considerations that our members can look forward to on each HomeLink home exchange.

1

Describe your home honestly in your listing and in all correspondence.

You want your exchange partners to be pleasantly surprised when they arrive, not disappointed. Never hide the existence of pets.

2

Leave your home clean

Standards of cleanliness vary, so make sure that floors are cleaned, refrigerator emptied, oven and stove top grease-free, bath and shower free of mold and grime, windows see-through, and surfaces dust-free. No need to repaint the house! And be sure to do the same, when leaving your exchange partner's home at the end of your stay.

3

Make space for your guests

Clear away enough of your personal belongings to leave space on shelves and in wardrobes and drawers so that your exchanger partners can empty their suitcases, arrange their things in bedrooms and bathrooms and feel at home.

4

Leave at least two sets of clean sheets per bed and two sets of towels per person.

5

Create your personal "Guide to your Home and Surroundings"

This simple binder or notebook should include local tourist information, instructions for household and electrical appliances, pet and plant care, details of garbage collection, etc. Phone numbers of a recommended doctor, dentist, babysitter, good restaurants, and helpful friends are always welcome too. It is important to strike a balance between your Home Guide's quality and quantity of content so your exchange partners won't be overwhelmed with the information you provide.

Confirm the terms of your exchange agreement

Use the Exchange Agreement Form to avoid all misunderstandings and clarify who pays what in terms of telephone, electric bills, gas consumption, insurance excesses in case of accidents, and staple foods such as flour, sugar, oil, etc.

Ensure a warm welcome for your guests

If arrangements are such that you cannot personally greet your exchanger partners upon their arrival, arrange for a family member, neighbor or friend to come by and welcome them. They will certainly have questions, and such a welcome will be much appreciated.

8

Leave the makings of a first meal

Nothing fancy, but your guests could be tired and hungry and grateful not to have to go out for dinner.

9

Leave them a welcome gift!

It has become a HomeLink tradition to leave a small gift of welcome: a bottle of wine or champagne, a local specialty brought from home... Always a special surprise.

10

Close the door, turn the key, and go off on holiday!

You may rest assured, knowing that your home is in the good hands of another HomeLink member like you.
